

XFile

Complete Automated File Management

Looking for a solution that automatically manages files and resources critical to your operation?

XFile is it!

XFile automatically
archives critical data,
deletes obsolete files
and guarantees that your system operates reliably, day in and day out.

Save Precious Time

Managing files on a hard drive is a critical task that has to be performed regularly. Files are being generated constantly, data is being stored to logs, temporary files are being created and many other file operations are being performed. With all this disk activity, it is important that valuable data is archived and drive resources are maintained.

More importantly, file management must happen day in and day out, without question. But does it? Is somebody always available to perform these routine tasks?

Automation is the perfect approach to reliable file management. But, how do you specify the rules and incorporate the exceptions which, until now, were tidbits of unwritten knowledge?

XFile to the rescue!

XFile offers a simple menu driven interface for defining a set of file management rules. They include:

- Archiving out-of-date files
- Transferring large files off your system to free up much needed drive space
- Cleaning out temporary directories and removing obsolete files

Regular maintenance can be performed by XFile periodically (like the last day of every month) or triggered on events. In any case, the file management is performed in the background, without human intervention.

Full Flexibility

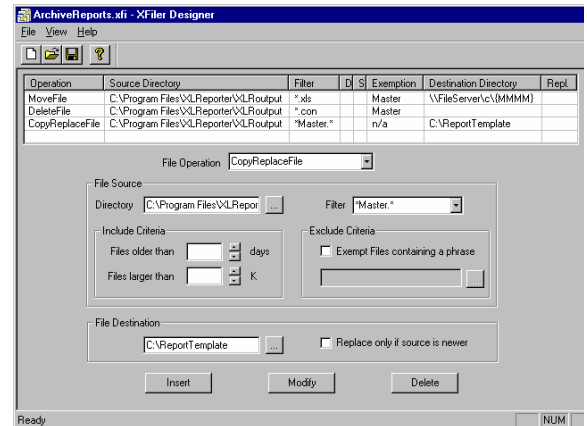

XFile offers search and exclude filter criteria to select your files. Filter criteria is based on:

Name. Use elements of the file name for filtering purposes.

Age. All files older than a specified age are filtered.

Size. All files that exceed the maximum size are filtered.

Exemption. Specify conditions to exclude files from a filter.

XFile makes file management a snap

SyTech, "The Report Company", develops software for reporting and database management systems.

If you are interested in The Complete Solution that gives you immediate payback, contact: (508) 520-9XLR.

Visit www.TheReportCompany.com and get your evaluation copy today!